

Next Left

A Fabian Society Blog

The Standard did quote at length Trevor Abrahamson of Glentree Estates, who offered a detailed economic model explaining how the property tax could put off wealthy foreigners, destroy consumer confidence and so bring down the entire British economy: “Anyone with an ounce of nous wouldn’t even suggest this policy, let alone implement it ... The British economy is far too dependent on the property sector to do something like this.”
